Bonônjour!

Jèrriais is Jersey's traditional language, spoken by a minority but widely visible - as seen in the name of La Hougue Bie ('hougue' means mound). It's important to keep the language nourished as part of our heritage.

As we say: À la tabl'ye comme au clios, car ch'est l'ventre tchi souôtcheint l'dos (at the table like in the field, as it's the stomach that supports the back). So, if you want bacon, you can say 'lard', a sandwich is 'eune sannouiche', and for a burger, try 'eune bourgaille'. Add some pickle with 'du picl'ye', or 'un oeu fricachi' for a fried egg.

Prawns are 'des chèrvettes' and a sausage is 'eune saûciche'.

Bonan appétit!

Enjoy your meal!
